Dear Parishioners,

It is nice to be back, even with the cold and potential snow. The retreat and conference were good. The retreat focused on recovery. It was a good experience to hear from others who have been in recovery for over 40 years. It was also good to be with six others who were at Guest House the same time I was. I'm looking forward to next year's retreat. And yes, it will be at the same time and same place. Not that it really matters, but the beach is a great place to connect with God. The conference was directed toward dioceses and religious communities and addressing mental health issues among clergy and religious. One of the participants at the conference was a layman from Ukraine. His name is Yuri. Yuri has set up a facility equivalent to Guest House in Ukraine; it is called Transfiguration House. He had some stories that were uplifting and encouraging although the country is experiencing war. Yuri invited me to tell my story at a Zoom meeting he hosts for the clergy at Transfiguration House. He assured me that he would translate.

Although I attended meetings and lectures, there was time for the beach. It was very peaceful and relaxing. I found a lot of sea shells. I found three sand dollars, but broke one. I also found some restaurants with good seafood. I didn't see any Ski! Or Wally's! Or Dairy King.

Peace,

Fr. Jim
